

The Intelligencer.

OFFICE: NO. 15 QUINCY STREET.

FRSW, HAGANS & HALL,
PROPRIETORS.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 15.

SENATOR SUMNER has received an invitation from prominent citizens of St. Louis to deliver an address in that city. The letter communicating this request is highly complimentary to Mr. Sumner.

THE Hon. Frederick W. Seward, late Assistant Secretary of State, has purchased the interest of Mr. Thurlow Weed in the New York Commercial Advertiser, and it is reported will take the editorial management of that old and well established journal.

THE Postmaster General, wickedly and maliciously instigated thereto by the devil, (as the indictments say), actually appoints two or three niggers down South, Postmasters, every week. How this can be, and the South be getting along better than ever, is a perfect infant phenomenon of a thing.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.—This year the Fourth of July falls on Sunday. The usual custom in such cases is to observe the day after the anniversary, which would be Monday, but some of the New York journals are in favor of keeping Saturday, the third instead. The advantage of the recommendation is that it Saturday be kept as a holiday Sunday would follow as a day of rest, and the new week would be entered upon unbroken.

GOVERNOR SEWARD, having gone into retirement at Auburn, has been strongly pressed to improve his leisure by writing the Records of his State, and a Political History of the State of New York. The Governor has decidedly refused, however, though the publishers offered most liberal inducements. He says the only literary work he will perform is the preparation of something in memoriam of his deceased daughter, a woman of wonderful promise, who died last year.

CONNECTICUT has ratified the 13th amendment, making, we believe, the twenty-second State to take this course. Those which have preceded it are Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Florida, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, Arkansas, Louisiana and Kansas. The irregular ratification in Kansas and Missouri—imperfect copies of the amendment having been sent upon in those States—will doubtless be corrected at the next sessions of their Legislatures.

The Tripartite Alliance against the United States.

Why It is Improbable.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

It is settled and declared policy of England, for several years past, is to avoid such alliances, that Government having wisely adopted the American policy of keeping clear of all entanglements in the affairs of other nations, a policy from which the United States Government should never have departed. The Alabama controversy, it is true, is England's affair, but the Cuban insurrection is not, and her suggestion and far-reaching statements fully comprehend that no ultimate good could come to the United States from interference in it. Such an alliance on the part of Great Britain would, therefore, be not only a departure from a wisely decided policy, but a departure without corresponding benefit.

But unlikely such an alliance in the midst of Great Britain, it is still more unlikely with Spain. It is but a few years since there was an attempt at a tripartite interference by the same powers in Mexico. France, Spain and England all sent forces there to enforce the claims of their respective subjects against the Government of that republic. When they had landed and marched a short distance into the interior it was discovered by two of the joint powers that the third (France) intended not only to enforce the pecuniary claims of her subjects, but to overthrow the existing Government and substitute a monarchy with a European prince at its head. Upon this, England and Spain withdrew, and the representative of Spain (General Prim) was not at all reserved in his expressions as to the deception which had been practiced upon his Government. The disastrous failure of that enterprise is still fresh in the memory of the world, and particularly in the minds of the French Emperor and people. Two of the contracting parties, England and Spain, were so thoroughly disgusted with the result, that they are again ready in so short a time to embark in another tripartite alliance or intervention. It must be borne in mind, too, that the same General Prim who denounced and withdrew from the Franco-Spanish alliance against Mexico, is the same General Prim who occupies so influential a position in the existing Spanish Government.

Then, as to the French Government: where does its pretext for such an intervention in American affairs come in? The Alabama claims controversy does not touch that Government in any way, and there is no reason to believe that the Emperor takes such a lively interest in the revolutionary changes in Spain as to be a volunteer in its cause—even admitting that it has a cause of war or even of complaint against the American Government. For these reasons, and others, the report is intrinsically improbable, and we trust that no person will be influenced by it to put his Government bonds at the disposal of the smallest fraction of a dollar below the market price before the report was published, nor should any business man permit his affairs to be disturbed by it in the least. There is no ground whatever for the allegation that General Grant's Administration is influenced by "disturbing tendencies." General Grant has been made in that direction by certain reckless spirits, but the effect they have had upon the administration is to show that such attempts are effectively resisted. The President and the members of his Cabinet are aware, as the great majority of the thinking people of the United States are aware, that what the country wants most of all now is peace, continued peace, to repair the damages of a prolonged war and to develop the resources of the country. As to the alleged alliance, even if it should prove to be true (a very improbable thing), we see no reason why it should cause a ripple of apprehension here. Its existence or its absence should not, and we believe would not, change the policy of the United States Government. Should it be true, the Government should pursue in the alleged alliance purposes to be based. Not even France and England combined can afford to provide a wanton war with the United States, for they will have more to lose in such a contest than we have.

THE Turners and the Protestants Germans seem to be unable to get along well together. Whatever happens they are always at larger heads.—Chicago Field.

A WOMAN in Morganstown has refused eighteen requests for marriage! Our girls don't make such fools of themselves.—Hagerstown Republican.

The Ohio eight per cent. interest bill, which became law at the late session of the Legislature, does not take effect till October 1st next.

QUITTING advertising in full times is like tearing out a dam, because the water is low. Either the plan will prevent goods from ever coming.
